Early in his Latin education Reginald fell in love with the letters of Cicero for their synthesis of the whole language in daily speech. Reginald is writing a commentary on 51 of these letters with Daniel McCarthy in order to introduce people to Cicero and his lasting linguistic impression.

Daily Schedule: 8:00-9:00 A.M. reading Cicero's letters, discussion
10:30-11:30 A.M. reading Gregory's letters, discussion
1:00-2:00 P.M. reading Gregory's letters, discussion
3:30-5:00 P.M. reading Cicero's letters, discussion
7:00-9:00 P. M. free discussion of any Latin texts

Accommodation available in the monastic guest house and buffet refectory.

Hotels and restaurants also available 1-2 miles away in Atchison.

Transport to/from Kansas City International Airport (MCI) upon request.

Your Host: Daniel McCarthy, is a monk of Atchison.

Reggie and I are writing books to pass on his unique method of teaching Latin developed while teaching in Rome. I have spent 13 months in Milwaukee working with Reggie on the first three projects.

Please support my work with Reggie with your gift to my monastic community so that together we may help Reggie give his method of teaching Latin to the next generation and to posterity:
